Santa Fe, N. M., Special in Sioux City Journal, 12th: Counsel for Elbert W. Blawett, accused slayer of Clyde Armour, of Sioux City, today lost their fight to free their client on a technicality. The court overruled their motion to quash the indictment against Blawett. Blawett's attorneys attacked the validity of the new law upon which the grand jury indicted Blawett. Because of the failure of the legislative record to show that the grand jury measure had been properly passed Blawett's counsel held the law was void. The court ruled the bill was properly signed and filed. The court further held that the grand jury's act was legal, as it was impeded to comply with either the old or new law. Following the court's ruling Blawett was arraigned on the charge of slaying Armour and entered a plea of not guilty. The trial of the case will start at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. No effort was made by Blawett's counsel to obtain a change of venue to San Juan county, which is the former home of the accused man.

Sioux City Journal, 14th: George Bates, a prominent Dakota county farmer and live stock feeder, captured first honors in the local hog trade today, his shipment selling at the $16.00 mark. . . . Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wallace of the Nebraska State hospital at Ingleside, Neb., have been appointed steward and stewardess of the city detention hospital. Mayor Andrews announced yesterday. Since the death of Mrs. J. McFeeters, formerly stewardess of the hospital, the place has been temporarily filled by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cunningham. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have had ten years of hospital experience. In addition to their work in the Nebraska institution, they were with the Cherokee hospital for a time. . . . Edward T. Kearney, president of the Mid-West bank, today will celebrate the thirty-first anniversary of his career as a banker. Mr. Kearney opened the Bank of Dakota County, at Jackson, Neb., on April 14, 1886. He continued in this institution until September 11, 1911, when he sold the bank, expecting to retire. After six months of inactivity, Mr. Kearney decided he could not remain idle and happy at the same time. So on March 11, 1912, he opened the Mid-West bank at 408 Pearl street. He began with a determination to procure $100,000 in deposits the first year and to increase the amount $100,000 each year. Today his ambition is realized, for the last statement of the bank issued on Thursday of this week, showed deposits totaling $604,956.90.

Fort Logan, Col., April 15, 1917.
Dear Mother:—
This being Sunday I thought I

you know that I am alive and well and happy. I have been in Fort Logan since Thursday afternoon and I will tell you that the army life isn't what I thought it to be. I gained 7 pounds in three days. That isn't so bad, is it?

I will give you the list of the grub we get. Well, we have scrambled eggs, ham, potatoes, coffee, bread, butter and oatmeal for breakfast. Some kind of meat, potatoes, bread, butter, dried peaches, coffee, milk, and some kind of dessert for dinner. If somebody tells you that they live on hard tack you can tell them that it is not so.

Saturday I worked in the kitchen. They have somewhere around 20 companies. I am in the 5th company and so is Melford Lothrop. Gerald Hall, Ed Ansnes, Harold Ansnes, Chester and Harold Antrim, and Ed Hansen are in the 19th company but when we leave here we will be together again.

Well, when I was in the kitchen I was wiping dishes. I thought you had a lot of dishes to wash but when you wash the dishes for 3,000 people it is no small job. It took us all day to wash and wipe the dishes.

I took my examination and was vaccinated. I had my blood tested and had one inoculation so that I shall not get any disease. My arm is swelled up as big as a tub.

We get our uniforms tomorrow, and tomorrow night we leave for the coast. There were 725 men sent out yesterday, and there were 513 that came in today. Already they have men sleeping in the attics and cellars. There are twelve thousand men coming in here Tuesday. They have to ship the men out without training. Melford Lothrop and I have the best captain in the whole camp.

How are papa and all the folks? Somebody stole two dollars from me. They offered me a job as clerk in the hospital operating the typewriter, but there were too many fainting, and the smell got my goat, so I had to give it up.

Well, give my regards to all the folks, and I must close for this time. If you write to Ft. Logan, Colo., and I am not there, they will forward it to me. They are talking of sending us to Honolulu.

Well, goodbye for this time.
Your loving son,
Wilfred Kinkel

P. S.—Don't worry about me. I have not been in the guard house yet, nor will I ever be.

Johnnie Blackburn entered the sixth grade Monday. He is a nephew of Lottie Hileman.

The eighth grade examination returns were received Monday. Most of the grades were passing. The second examination will be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

The equipment for the playground has begun to arrive. A croquet set and a tennis net have been received. The work of constructing other apparatus on the grounds begins this week. The fund for this purpose has been increased to $90.

The program given by the first and second primary rooms was well attended and well received. One of the largest audiences that has gathered at the school in the past two years was present.

The receipts for the playground fund to date are as follows:

Miss Fleming's program and candy sale.....	$ 34 40
Girls' debating team.....	11 55
Basket ball association.....	9 20
First and second primary program....	28 95
Miss Mayo's program.....	10 00
Candy sales.....	5 45

A program will be given by the high school people at the school auditorium this Friday evening. It will be free and consist of theses and readings by the Juniors and readings by other students. A very urgent appeal is made to all the patrons and friends of the school to be present.

The splendid cooperation of the public in the various activities of the school of the past winter and at the present time is greatly appreciated.

The remainder of the school year will be full and several of the programs will be free to the public, and to these we urge you to come more earnestly than to the other programs.

Miss Mayo gave an excellent rendering of "Pollyanna" to a very appreciative audience Monday evening. Miss Mayo will always hold a place in our thoughts because of the message she brought. Shall we not all try the "Glad Game?"

The baseball boys were very agreeably surprised Friday afternoon when they found that they were able to play ball in a commendable manner. South Sioux City defeated us 4 to 1, but they gave us a new courage and the boys will play out the schedule for the real sport there is in it. The next game will be played with Newcastle on Friday or Saturday of this week. Watch for bills and try to see it. Two games will be played the following week on the same day at Newcastle and Ponca.
